Companies can compensate for a loss of security with substantial learning. We find that managers at good job companies willingly share what they know—sales forecasts or economic conditions, for instance—at weekly meetings. The result: Financial markets, the economy, and the labor market started to grow. They grow much of our food, strengthen economies and build climate resilience. Lands administered by other federal agencies including the Army Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation, other Department of Agriculture, Department of Defense, Department of Energy, and Department of Transportation were not included, nor were state, local, or private lands. Purpose, not just profit. Apple's innovative new facility is designed to promote worker relationships. I am also convinced that all stakeholders will be more loyal to a company that helps them contribute to social and environmental issues. Figure 2: West vs.
